Hello and welcome to our weekly newsletter.

This week saw us join St James' Infants for a combined Harvest Festival in St James' Church. The children were great with some brilliant singing, thoughtful prayers, creative poems and confident public speaking. It was a great to welcome so many parents into church to support the children and I would like to say thank for your support, and generosity with the food donations so far. Our Foodbank will be collecting next Friday so anymore kind donations are extremely welcome and details of the items they are in most need of can be found on ClassDojo.

We were joined in school by Tempest on Tuesday school photos, and hopefully links will be with you very soon to purchase some lovely photos of the children. Votes have been coming in all week for our parent governor vacancy and we are delighted to have been able to announce today the winner of the election – but want to extend our thanks to all of the nominees for putting themselves forward and showing commitment to the school.

In the classroom the children continue to work really well, and it was great to catch up with staff who elected some individuals for our weekly Headteacher lottery. This afternoon we celebrated these children and other certificate winners for areas such as an amazing attitude to work, and great efforts in homework. Well done for showing The St James' Way!

Wishing you a restful weekend, Mr Beattie
